

Hill with sister:

Sister: sigh "Alice! Are you sleeping again?"

Alice: I'm sorry! I can't help it... This book is too boring.

Alice: What's the use of a book without pictures or conversations?

Sister: smiling Not every book needs pictures Alice. Some books are meant to make you think.

Alice: But thinking without pictures is so tiring...

Sister: If you never try, you'll never discover the adventures hiding in words.

Alice: muttering I'd still rather have an adventure of my own.

...

White Rabbit: Oh dear! Oh dear! I shall be terribly late!

Alice: Huh? Is that a rabbit with a waistcoat?

Alice: How interesting...

White Rabbit: sprinting No time! No time at all!

Alice: Wait! Mr Rabbit!

Alice: I must simply follow him!

Falling (this has her before going into the hole and during cuz i didnt know if you wanted one or the other):

Approaching hole

Alice: This looks like a deep hole...

Alice: Oh well, here goes nothing!

Falling in hole

Alice: AHH!!!

Alice: I can't stop!!!

... (After a few minutes)

Alice: When is this hole going to end?!

Crying:

Alice: No no no!

Alice: I'm too big then too small, I did exactly what it said!

Alice: There's no way out!

Alice: sobbing I can't fix this... I can't fix any of it.

Alice: I don't belong here! I want to go home!

Waking up:

Sister: distant Alice... Alice...?

Alice: Mm...?

Sister: closer Alice, wake up!

Alice: Huh? I was— I almost—

Sister: You fell asleep again.

Alice: The rabbit.. And the hole.. I couldn't get out!

Sister: You were dreaming Alice. Now come along, it's getting late.

Alice: ...It felt so real.
